

How do you explain the love of a dog?

*Is it in their eyes, or the tilt of their head?
Or the gentle paw resting on your leg?
Maybe it is their need for us.....but we need them more.*

*Maybe it is the soft fur on their face.
Or their tolerance of all the kisses we give.
It could be the greeting we get after a hard day at work.
Or is it the joy of watching them run through a meadow... so free.*

Could it be the connection we make with them.....not all.... but the few who are sent from Heaven to be our Angels?

*Maybe it is love the way it should be.
Without conditions, without reasons, without selfishness.*

Remus ACD Rescue

Because many people are not familiar with “rescue”, we would like to explain briefly what we do. We use an advisory board, and ask that potential adopters complete an application, we check a veterinary reference, conduct a phone interview and a photo home visit. We survive on donations and adoption fees. We receive dogs for a wide variety of reasons, such as: the dog is picked up as a stray, taken to a shelter and not redeemed, a family is unwilling to take the dog when they move, people have a baby and decide that they no longer want a dog.

But, the most frequent problem is someone chooses a breed of dog which is not suitable either to his/her own temperament or lifestyle. If you are a dog person, you can't believe the reasons that people give up a dog - but it happens all the time. Almost always, it is absolutely no reflection on the dogs and how super they are.
